USPA NEWS - Across six countries in fifteen two-legged matches, the 2018 Rugby Africa Gold Cup promises seven days of intense matches pitting Africa's top six men's rugby union nations against each other between 16 June and 18 August 2018. The stakes are particularly high this year, since the 2018 African champion will automatically qualify for the 2019 World Cup in Japan (https://www.RugbyWorldCup.com), though the runner-up will participate in a last chance bracket tournament.

A total of three teams will thus have the opportunity to bear the colours of Africa in the 2019 Rugby World Cup, since South Africa has already qualified. "The fixtures for the 2018 Rugby Africa Gold Cup have been scheduled in consultation with the participating federations and our media partner, Kwese Sports. Numerous factors had to be considered for such a busy sporting period, such as the dates of international windows for releasing club players to their national teams and particularly the Rugby World Cup Sevens, which is scheduled to be held between 20 and 22 July. This explains the pause between 7 July and 4 August", stated Guédel N´Diaye, Rugby Afrique Competition Committee Director (www.RugbyAfrique.com). "The rules remain the same for the 2017 season, in that the top three teams will play three home matches and two away matches, while the teams ranked fourth through sixth will travel three times&only host two home matches", specified Guédel N´Diaye.

THE FINAL STANDINGS AT THE END OF THE 2017 SEASON IS AS FOLLOWS------

- 1 Namibia
- 2 Kenya
- 3 Uganda
- 4 Tunisia
- 5 Zimbabwe
- 6 Morocco (promoted from the Rugby Africa Silver Cup)

AN ENHANCED LEVEL OF PLAY WITH PRIMETIME VISIBILITY------

"As Official Partner of Rugby Africa, we will do our best to ensure that all Africans know that 2018 will be the year in which the best African teams will face off to earn the privilege to represent Africa at the 2019 Rugby World Cup, the world's third largest sporting event", stated Nicolas Pompigne-Mognard, founder and CEO of the APO Group, Official Partner of Rugby Africa.
