Rome, 25.04.2018, 07:50 Time

USPA NEWS - 1,500 characters arrived in Rome from thirteen different countries of the world. A dive back through the centuries to return to the ancient imperial Rome, the most magnificent of the centurions, gladiators and vestals, including military ceremonies and ancient professions. With this journey through time made of evocative re-enactments and reconstructions, the Gruppo Storico Romano contributed to the celebrations of the Christmas of Rome number 2771.

The numerous groups of historical re-enactments offered educational and cultural shows and initiatives, in particular among these the great parade march from the Circus Maximus with 1,500 costumed characters arrived for the occasion from thirteen countries of the world and who in the past were part of the Roman Empire. A procession of costumed reenactors has crossed the heart of the city of Rome, crossing the places of the ancient imperial city. In addition to the parade, the tribute to the statue of Augustus on Via dei Fori Imperiali with the deposition of a laurel wreath as tribute to the emperor and numerous performances in a Circus Maximus. For the past eighteen years the celebration of Rome Birthday has been strongly desired and financed by the Roman Historical Group in the person of the founder and president Sergio Iacomoni, in the total absence of contributions from public institutions. Now authorities and politicians are discussing the future of this important annual event, but the fear that it may lose its most genuine and authentic spirit is strong in the people who in recent years have worked hard to decree its undoubted success.
