Sydney Australia, 09.02.2020, 07:53 Time

USPA NEWS - In a very rare interview with Vanuatu - Australian Trade Commissioner Richard Butler released to USPA24 a rare opportunity to get a second Citizenship in the Republic of Vanuatu via Agricultural Property Investment. Butler the two times trade commissioner for Vanuatu (2012/2015 and 2017/2019). Richard is also the Project Manager for South Pacific Plantations limited with 40 years of real estate development experience.

The Republic of Vanuatu is also known as The Real Tropical Paradise, and an agricultural property developer is offering a chance to become a citizen in the country through its Agricultural property investment program.

Richard Butler, an agricultural property investor based in Vanuatu, said he was pleased to alert investors around the world about an opportunity to invest in organic agricultural property, while also acquiring permanent residency in the Republic of Vanuatu as part of the investment package.

"Add-in the genuine, helpful, and friendly local people""from a myriad of backgrounds and cultures and a huge variety of landscapes and lifestyles"" you will be so smitten with this tropical paradise. If you're considering to get additional citizenship for your spouse and children, an extra discount is available for you," said Butler.

Vanuatu is a tax-friendly, south pacific nation, a peaceful paradise where with friendly people, clean air, clean water and organic food. The country just recently signed an agreement to become part of China's belt and road initiative, which will see the current number of 130k tourists being taken to over 500k tourists in a year. This is good news for those willing to take the agricultural property investment program because it will make them a major stakeholder before the boom.

Usually, to acquire a Vanuatu citizenship costs $150,000. However Butler explained that with the program, investors will not need to pay the amount since the cost for a second passport and citizenship is included in the investment plan, which amounts to $500,000, with projected income of $50,000 yearly. The agricultural property (10 tropical fruit farm-lets) will be managed under a farm share contract by a competent team who work together with the local people. This is a stable investment with a value that keeps increasing year by year irrespective of the status of the economy.

It's not surprising if you look at the facts I mentioned above.

What's more, if you'd like to live in a friendly community where people smile and say hello when they pass in the streets, it's still happening almost anywhere in Vanuatu.
