USPA NEWS - Zimmer composed a classical hymn that premiere during the festival's 10th anniversary edition. The 10-minute-long composition takes listeners on a magical journey that embodies the mythical qualities, magical atmosphere and international character of Tomorrowland

Leading American entertainment trade journal The Hollywood Reporter today announced the collaboration between renowned composer Hans Zimmer and the world-famous music festival Tomorrowland. Zimmer composed a classical hymn that premiere during the festival's 10th anniversary edition. The 10-minute-long composition takes listeners on a magical journey that embodies the mythical qualities, magical atmosphere and international character of Tomorrowland.

"Tomorrowland is a known quantity to me", says Hans Zimmer, "and after ten years I think they deserve something special for their anniversary. It should be culturally diverse and should somehow represent the whole world. The hymn is about bringing different cultures together.

This year over 400 artists will once again be appearing on the various colorful stages that have been constructed in the spectacular festival park De Schorre in Boom. For three whole days, 180,000 visitors will immerse themselves in a magical world. The fairytale decor, gigantic dance valley, incredible fireworks and the best DJs in the world will provide an experience like no other. The 10th anniversary of Tomorrowland is being celebrated with a double edition: held on both 18-20 July and 25-27 July.
