THE WEIMAR FORMAT IS A PLATFORM FOR COOPERATION AND DIALOGUE BETWEEN FRANCE GERMANY AND POLAND SINCE 1991

The so-called Weimar format was founded in 1991, two years after the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989. It is a platform for regular exchanges and cooperation between France, Germany and Poland. The purpose of this cooperation was then to prepare and support Poland's accession to NATO and the European Union (EU) and to support German-Polish reconciliation, inspired by the Franco-German experience. Within the framework of the Weimar Triangle, high-level meetings take place regularly. Achievements are also materializing, both in the fields of foreign affairs and defence, as well as culture and research, according to the French MFA. Poland, having joined NATO, entered the European Union in 2004. This diplomatic format which brings together these three countries, which takes the name of this city where the Constitution of the Weimar Republic (1918-1933) was established. The last meeting between the three countries was held on February 19, in Germany, on the occasion of the Munich Security Conference.

IMMIGRATION PACT TO BE ALSO DISCUSSED BY THE THREE LEADERS

The touchy topic of immigration was also raised during the Q&A session, in resonance with the recent knife attack in Annecy (A Syrian political refugee, stabbing four young children and two seniors, in a park in Annecy a week ago) who has bouverie all over France. An ad hoc meeting of the interior ministers of the twenty-seven European countries then took place immediately after this tragedy and yesterday, the President of the European Commission, Von Der Leyen while the Dutch PM, Mark Rutte, and the PM Italian, Meloni tries to go to Tunisia to curb the influx of migrants to the Mediterranean. They had resulted in an agreement of €1 billion in EU funding, promised to Tunisia in this sense.

For two years, consultations between the three countries have been frozen, following Poland's breakdown of negotiations with the European aircraft manufacturer Airbus on a major contract for military helicopters. From now on, the relations seem to be revived and orchestrated by the Head of State Macron, in the name of a lasting peace in Ukraine, by displaying a strong and united Europe in the face of Russia.
