USPA NEWS - As a passionate individual with a strong desire to make a positive impact, I am deeply committed to helping people in need and engaging in charity work. This dedication stems from my genuine concern for the well-being of others and a strong sense of empathy.

Throughout the challenging times of the Covid-19 pandemic, I actively contributed to my community by assisting my father in distributing food to individuals facing food insecurity. Additionally, I took on the responsibility of caring for my disabled uncle, ensuring that his basic needs were met. These experiences further ignited my drive to serve those less fortunate and solidified my belief in the power of compassion.

In addition to my local contributions, I have had the opportunity to extend my philanthropic efforts beyond borders by supporting my father in various charity works overseas. Together, we have collaborated on projects aimed at providing essential resources and assistance to underprivileged communities in different countries.

Through these experiences, I witnessed firsthand the transformative impact of humanitarian work and developed a deep appreciation for cultural diversity and global solidarity. These international endeavours have further fuelled my passion for helping people in need and broadened my perspective on the challenges faced by communities around the world.

By actively participating in these charity initiatives alongside my father, I have gained invaluable insights into the complexities of organizing and executing sustainable aid programs. These experiences have not only strengthened my organizational and leadership skills but have also instilled in me a sense of responsibility and a drive to continuously seek innovative ways to address social issues.

Through my involvement in overseas charity works, I have learned to navigate diverse cultural contexts, adapt to unfamiliar environments, and collaborate with individuals from different backgrounds, further enriching my understanding of the global community and reinforcing my commitment to making a positive impact on a global scale.

I am currently a first-year TLEVEL computing student, eager to enhance my technical skills and contribute to the field of computing. This academic pursuit aligns with my long-term goals of leveraging technology to create positive change and improve people's lives. Outside of my studies, I find solace and fulfillment in my hobbies of acting and drama. Engaging in these creative pursuits allows me to explore diverse perspectives and develop a deep understanding of human emotions, which further fuels my passion for helping others.
